+ City Feeds

- 1 This rug by Nina Bovasso from BravinLee is an inspirational myriad of color that we came across on Better Living Through Design.
- 2 Kim, from Desire to Inspire, knows how to introduce bold color in meaningful ways- like this gorgeous canary yellow bulletin board frame.
- 3 This sofa from Anthropologie brings great color and texture to a room.

TODAY IN MARKETPLACE

- Maxwell's Daily Find
- Gold Bug
- Spice Station
- Brook Farm General...

- 4 These bold and daring screens from Designgalleriet on act (the website is in German, apologies for the limited information) are an aggressive way to make a color statement, but could be stunning in the right setting.
- 5 CasaSugar has a great example of making a strong case for color and texture with this illustration of using throw pillows to dictate a color scheme.

I just bought one of these rugs when I was in New York and I am so happy with it! The art dealer at BravinLee programs gave me a really great discount since they are just starting out this program. I love that these rugs aren't just aesthetically beautiful, they retain the same value as a piece of artwork since they are limited editions and there is a continuing market for high quality rugs to retain their value at auction.

I think I have a new unobtainable dream rug.

If I just had $35,000 I could put that rug and a few other things together and have a very nice room. :-)
